Thank you again for helping us spread the word that we do have safer choices when it comes to fire protection.

My wife and I have been seriously considering our need for a quality fire detection system. We only had the cheap box-store brand smoke detectors, which I thought provided the protection we needed.

As a trainer for a large local company, I was impressed with the materials provided in the presentation. There were abundant data, and the DVD presentation was very touching - and heart-breaking. Additionally Donna was also very professional, without losing a personal touch and an appropriate sense of humor.

None of this would mean anything but smoke and mirrors, if it weren't for the product. The DeTech products seem very sturdy, and the technology seems far advanced of what I've seen to date.

I hope that I never face the possibility of needing these units. Should the need arise, though, I have no doubt that my family will have more than adequate notice.
